The Old Made New

For several years, the old McClurkan Building had drooped lower and lower, its jowls sagging with age, but this past year it was decided that because of its historical and traditional value and the prohibitive cost of a totally new structure, it will be better to preserve the exterior of the McClurkan Building and simply renovate the unsatisfactory parts of the interior.

Many months have passed since renovations started, but completion of the project is been installed. Plans are to have soft music play at all times once the building is completed.

Funds for the renovations have come from various sources. Churches across the zone have collected love offerings, and three individuals have made major contributions. John T. Benson and Robert Benson contributed $200,000 in memory of their mother, Eva Green Benson, for whom the auditorium has been renamed. Another major McClurkan's renovation for the list goes on and on, but the exciting day finally came when the building (at least the main floor) could be occupied again.

On March 31, the student body gathered in the newly-refurbished Benson Auditorium to hear the Rev. Jim Bond in The Benson Lecture Series.

The services upheld the heights of past years as students mailed their attentions to the excellent words of the chaplain and professor of Practical Theology from Nazarene Bible College.

Bond has numerous other credits to his name. He is a graduate of Point Loma College, and of Nazarene Theological Seminary. He has been a missionary to Brazil as well as a former member of the General Board of the Church of the Nazarene.

Bond is unique in that he could have easily had a basketball career as well as a ministerial one. He was high school all-American and NAIA all-American in college, receiving an offer from the pros.

In just a few more weeks, the move back into McClurkan should be completed with the former occupants of the basement moving back into offices and rooms. Once again, the strong, proud building will stand as a symbol of dedication and worship for generations to come.

drawing near. It was necessary to bring the building up to the present fire code standards and to replace the unsafe balcony, so insulation was added, wiring was replaced, and new tiered seating was built in the position of the former squeaking balcony.

Along with these changes, additional structural support became needed. Steel beams were added in the basement.

Steps and doors were added on each side of the stage platform in the sanctuary. The classrooms in the back of the auditorium were reduced in size to make a fire exit hallway and backdrop storage room possible.

A small, peaceful prayer chapel has been added to one side of the auditorium, in which six pews, a small altar, and stained glass windows have contributor was the McCain family. They gave $100,000.

A local crane company donated the use of a crane to raise the cupola to replace the old McClurkan tower. They also hoisted the huge air conditioning units into the attic and lifted heavy packages of shingles onto the roof.

Architect Don Jernigan also contributed to the renovation project by donating his professional services and a new piano and organ. He is heading up a local campaign called the Fabulous Forty to raise the needed funds for the organ.

Many memorial gifts have been made: stained glass windows, altar, and pews. The pews and altar were purchased from Linsey Church Furniture Company.

The President's Ultimatum:

Newness and Apathy

First, the positive! A good friend of mine from my home city was visiting the campus recently. He now attends another Nazarene College—the little Bible College in Illinois. He went with me all over campus seeing all the improvements from two years ago, and commented at the end of our tour that he might consider coming here someday again, and that he was impressed with the massive improvements. We had seen it all take place and therefore have probably taken a lot of it for granted, but it's true!

McClurkan, the new sidewalks, WNAZ newly-remodeled, the changes in the cafeteria, and on and on. And there's more to come!

Building by building this campus is going to be taking on a new look! The spring trees and flowers are in full beauty. What a way to spend a spring! We really have a college campus to be proud of! No longer does our campus have to take a back seat to anybody's! We now can boast of our campus as well as our people! I must also comment that the catalyst behind all of the improvements has been President Adams. A man with vision and hopes, and yet fiscal responsibility and reality. I have been consistently impressed this year with the President's ability to discuss issues involving students with an open mind and with interest. He approaches the physical improvements with excitement and emotional expectation. We truly have a college President who deserves his title! Newness pervades the atmosphere this spring, so let's keep it alive and make this a fantastic quarter!

Now, the negative. I hope that in the midst of all of this newness there has not settled in a deep apathy!

Of nine SBA elections taken last week, only three were contested! A total of 14 candidates running for nine offices! Student government has a long and rich heritage at Trevecca. This kind of apathetic approach to it will definitely harm that heritage, and if it continues, will mean the end of that rich heritage!

I agree it takes some work, and some sacrifice. But surely there are enough people who think it might be worth it. Class elections are coming up in a few weeks, and I hope apathy will be replaced by real interest and excitement for that election! Get involved!

In The Public Interest: The Corporation Against The Church

by Ralph Nader

The Immaculate Conception Church is located in an area of eastern Detroit known as Poletown. It is, by all accounts, a beautiful, historic structure. To its parishioners, longtime residents of this integrated, lower-middle-class neighborhood, the church has inviolable spiritual and cultural significance.

But not to the giant General Motors Corp. GM has stipulated that the church must be demolished to make way for a parking lot attached to a new Cadillac assembly plant that the automaker proposes to construct in Poletown. The pliant city government, willing to cannibalize its own metropolis to give an uncompromising GM all that it demands, is following the company's orders. After all, the proposed highly automated plant will replace two older plants GM expects to close in Detroit and retain about a third of the existing jobs.

The Rev. Joseph Karasiewicz, pastor of Immaculate Conception, thinks the plant can be built without destroying the church. Industrial design experts agree. What's more, they believe that if GM were a little reasonable, the automaker could design its factory in a way that would save the Poletown neighborhood of 3,500 residents, 1,500 households, 150 businesses, several schools, a hospital and 12 churches.

GM is demanding that this entire community be demolished and cleared by the city of Detroit, to be paid for by a $200 million federal, state and local taxpayers' subsidy. Although the proposed assembly plant itself would cover only 70 acres of land, General Motors wants to gobble up the entire 465 acres that includes the Poletown community. One hundred four of these acres now comprise the old Dodge Main auto plant presently being razed by the city to make way for the Cadillac factory.

But General Motors and its chairman, Roger Smith, are not bending to reason. They have the city on the run with suggestions that they could always build the plant elsewhere. They have presented Detroit with what they think is an invincible ultimatum in writing: Clear out the residents by May 1, 1981, make the taxpayers pay for preparing the site and provide a 10-year property-tax abatement if you want the new robotized factory within your city limits.

Earlier in this century workers had to sacrifice too much of their health, their time and their labor to the nation's industrial barons. Now, the people of Poletown, whose neighborhood includes businesses that generate more than 1,000 jobs, have to sacrifice their homes, their businesses, churches, schools and community ties for a GM plant. What's more dismaying is that GM refuses to consider other ways of building its plant that could save this neighborhood. GM wants ALL of that acreage. Where 10 churches and many homes now stand, for instance, GM wants to locate a 30-acre parking lot.

Karasiewicz—or Father Joe, as he affectionately is called—is not giving up. Nor are other members of the clergy in Poletown. In a pleading letter that turns the Middle Ages on its head, Father Joe has written to GM chairman Roger Smith, begging him to save the church. The church is begging the corporation for physical salvation! Father Joe's exact words are worthy of repetition:

"Please, do save at least our church, which is both an architectural gem and historic structure as well. While I am aware of the fact that His Eminence, Cardinal Dearden, made it known that he would not oppose your project, I dare to presume more 'on the spot' appreciation of the situation here in our parish. If our church should be demolished, the resulting harm inflicted on our people would be absolutely devastating, causing, as I can envision it, irreparable personal harm."

The church pastor offered to give the corporation chairman a tour of the church. So far, the moguls of General Motors have spurned repeated requests from the Poletown community to meet with them and discuss alternatives whereby the neighborhood could be saved and the plant still be built.

If cities under pressure can condemn churches for corporations to build plants which can be built on less land (the proposed Cadillac factory itself will take up less than one-seventh of the total land appropriated for the project), then surely the corporation has become the sovereign power. To GM the 465 acres is valuable real estate; to the people of Poletown this acreage has been the site of their homes, churches and workplaces for decades.

Readers who wish to help save the churches and community of Poletown can write to Poletown Neighborhood Council, Immaculate Conception Church, 3414 Trombly, Detroit, Mich. 48211.

Student Spotlight

Joyce Lackey

Joyce Lackey was reared in Tullahoma, Tennessee, on a large farm. She has lived there with her parents and no brothers and sisters for all of her 19 years, until coming to Trevecca.

Joyce chose to come to Trevecca because it is a Christian college. She was encouraged by her fellow members at the First Church of the Nazarene in Tullahoma, so she packed her things, came to Nashville, and is presently majoring in Special Education.

Special Education is a pet love of Joyce's. She has a slight speech imperfection that she feels will help her relate to those with whom she counsels and teaches.

When interviewed, Joyce was very enthused because she was going to go to Vanderbilt Children's Hospital to apply for volunteer work. She hopes to be working with the kindergarten program, watching doctors give therapy and learning the ropes of treating special, but beautiful, people with love.

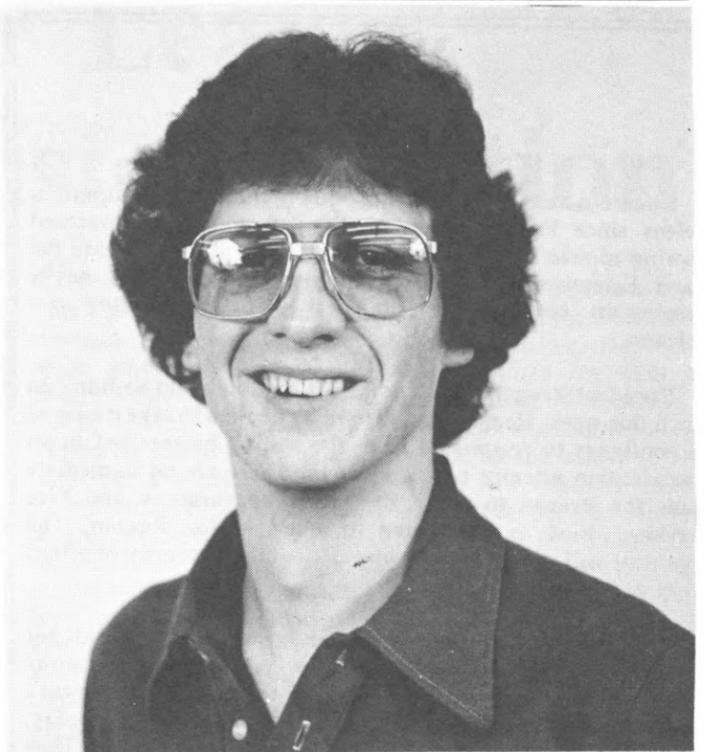

Besides Special Education, Joyce is fond of travelling. She plans to visit her favorite cousin, Janice Lashway, this summer in New York. She has also visited Texas, Alabama, Chicago, and Atlanta.

Joyce likes to pal around with Karen Jones, Ed Wynn, Denise Young, Russell Miller, and Marla Green, and when she isn't doing that, she enjoys bowling, reading, fishing, and spending time with animals or going to concerts.

"I like to meet new people and make new friends," says Joyce. "And I like chapels better since we moved back into McClurkan. It seems to have more spirit."

Joyce's family consists of her dad, B.W., and her mom, Dorothy, and they have 2 dogs, Queenie and Pluto.

Take time to get acquainted with Joyce. You'll see her at almost any campus event, just making new friends and having fun.

Randy Lewis

Nineteen-year-old Randy Lewis hails from Xenia, Ohio. He is tentatively majoring in Communications and Broadcasting here at Trevecca.

While he's been at TNC, Randy has fallen in love with radio. "I really enjoy working at WNAZ," says Randy. "I plan to use my experience here and in other stations to advance in communications."

Randy has other loves besides radio. He enjoys working with the Janusians and the Forensics team. He had the part of "Holgrave" in the Janusians WNAZ Radio Drama production of The House of the Seven Gables. Mr. Lewis also likes television, stereo music, and the contemporary Christian sound. A couple of Randy's favorite contemporary Christian recording artists are Leon Patillo and Amy Grant.

Randy has an interest in plants too. Irving, his philodendron, is his pet plant.

On a totally different spectrum is Randy's interest in sci-fi, especially Star Trek and Battlestar Galactica. He intersperses this with backgammon and enjoying good food, like barbecued ribs, mashed potatoes, giblet gravy, whole-kernel corn, and iced tea with lemon.

Randy's dad works in a warehouse, and his mom is a realtor. He has two older sisters. One is married with a child. And he also has a black French poodle named Chantey, who is eleven years old.

If you can catch Randy in one place, ask him to tell you about the tornado of '74 in Xenia. Then ask him his favorite color, and before you know it, you'll be engaged in delightful conversation.

A Modern Day Circuit Rider

Fzzzt, pop, buzz, beep! "Down in Union County; Down in Union County; Down in Union County to see my Suzy Ann..."

It is Sunday morning in Nashville, Tennessee; the clock radio is broadcasting the sounds of WSM Radio with Roy Acuff serenading the dawn of a new-born day.

Amidst all of this commotion, a very sleepy-eyed Nazarene minister places one foot on the floor; and thus begins a Sabbath day in the life of a modern-day circuit rider.

At 8 a.m., the journey begins. Not on horseback, as in yesteryear, but in a Ford station wagon.

Nashville is left behind as the circuit rider drives south on I-65 toward Columbia, Tennessee.

Sante Fe is a town approximately ten miles northwest of Columbia. As we go through Santa Fe, we are enjoying the sound of the Speer Family singing "The King is Coming."

By 9:45 a.m., the Ford pulls up in front of Akin Chapel Church of the Nazarene. This is the church that Dr. H.F. Reynolds came to, in 1912 for what might have been the first Nazarene District Assembly ever held in the state. The church was at that time in a building at a location that has since been taken over as part of the Natchez Trace Parkway and the church was then called the Water Valley Pentacostal Church of the Nazarene.

The preaching service begins at Akin at 10. Sunday School will be at 11, after the minister leaves for another service. There are 20 people present and a good service is enjoyed in this white-frame, picturesque church that sits on a hill overlooking the Water Valley community.

World In Brief

Scientists have taken their first look at the crater of Mount St. Helens since Friday's eruption. Sunday night, they watched glowing molten rock add to an existing laval dome inside the crater. Scientists believe there could be more activity, so they're keeping an "eruption alert" in effect for the Washington state volcano.

President Reagan is back at the White House, but he didn't do much this week. Reagan was advised by doctors to take it easy as he continues to recuperate from the wound he received in an assassination attempt two weeks ago. There are no immediate plans for Reagan to make any public appearances, and Vice President Bush is continuing to stand in for Reagan. The President will continue to receive his national security briefings every day—in written form.

About 40 of the former American hostages held in Iran got together Monday in Washington for yet another ceremony honoring them. The returnees received the State Department's award for valor from Secretary of State Haig. Then on Tuesday, the former hostages went to West Virginia for three days. They met with the doctors who examined them in West Germany after their release in January.

The Chairman of the House Budget Committee, Democrat James Jones of Oklahoma, said Sunday that the Reagan administration may trade its proposed three-year tax cut for a one-year plan and a promise of more. But today, deputy White House news secretary Larry Speakes said that's not so. Said Speakes: "There is no plan of compromise on the part of the administration on the President's economic package." And, he said, "No one has been authorized by the President to talk compromise."

Is the cease-fire in Lebanon still holding? That depends on how you define a ceasefire, and whom you ask. Fighting between Syrian and Christian forces is reported in the hills outside the Catholic city of Zahle. According to Lebanese government sources, the Syrians are claiming that the ceasefire called last Wednesday applies only to the city itself, not the surrounding hills. There has also been some sniper fire in Beirut. Violence between the Syrians and Christians broke out April First. The current ceasefire is the 18th one called by Lebanon's president.

The Business of Health

(AP) TRUST: It's a basic component in the relationship between doctor and patient. But it's not the only component—even if some of us wish it were.

When you go to the doctor because you don't feel well, you figure he's going to do something about it.

Yes, that's an obvious statement. In fact, it's so obvious that we usually forget about it. You usually skip on from the idea that you'll be cured to the idea that your doctor is just the person to cure you. You trust him to come up with the course of action that will make you feel better.

But some doctors say there's a big problem with that way of thinking. The problem, they say, is that it's quite possible that the doctor can't do anything—that the best cure for your illness is to simply do nothing.

Dr. Keith Lasko is one such doctor. He's written a book called The Great Billion-Dollar Medical Swindle. He argues that doctors feel the pressure from the patient and the bill collectors, to do something.

Suppose, for example, that you go to the doctor suffering from a cold. Now, there is no cure for the common cold. All you can do is rest and take medicines to make you more comfortable while the thing fades away.

But, says Lasko, "If the doctor tells the patient, the patient is going to stop coming to the doctor with a cold, and the doctor will lose fees." What's more, he says, "The patient may go to another doctor who fools him into thinking antibiotics are good for the common cold."

The result, he says, is that the doctor gives the patient an antibiotic shot, even though it's useless. Lasko says the patient, "not knowing any better, will be satisfied, and will leave the doctor's office feeling that something has been done."

In fact though, nothing's been done . . . The patient's paid for it . . . and it added a chemical to his body that he didn't need in the first place.

Lasko sums it up this way: "The medical aspect of the decision is often a judgement thing. And the doctor may decide on something that he will rationalize to be in the patient's best interests, but actually will coincidentally be in the doctor's best interests."

Energy Scan

(AP) West Virginia wants to strike an energy deal with New England.

In a series of newspaper ads, West Virginians are urging New Englanders to persuade the region's electric utilities to switch from oil to coal. The West Virginians say the switch will give northerners cheaper energy and also produce more jobs in the West Virginia coal fields.

An energy analyst for the New England Regional Commission says 59 percent of the electricity generated in New England in 1979 was from fuel oil. Four percent came from coal. New England is heavily dependent on expensive foreign oil; 84 percent of all the oil that comes to the region is from abroad.

The West Virginia Coal Association contends that if New England utilities convert their oil-fired furnaces back to coal, the savings in fuel will be worth the initial expense.

Utility officials agree, saying the cost of using coal is about half that of oil.

A major drawback to the coal plan is that coal makes the air dirtier than oil. Several New England generating firms have switched from coal to oil due to federal air pollution regulations.

Now utilities are hoping air quality standards can be eased so electric customers will not have to continue to bear the cost of high fuel prices.

So far, it seems the West Virginians' ad has generated the hoped-for response from some New Englanders. One woman in Everett, Massachusetts, wrote a Boston newspaper: "I firmly believe the environmentalists have ruined us. America should go back to coal."

A Quincy Massachusetts resident wrote: "I wholeheartedly agree that our two areas of the country should assist each other."

Practice does not make perfect; perfect practice makes perfect. Vince Lombardi

This Is What Sigma Retreat Is All About . . .

By Kim King

Sigma Society had the opportunity of sharing in a most beautiful and meaningful weekend with several young ladies from the Tennessee Preparatory School.

On April 3, about 5 p.m., Sigma Society headed toward the Tennessee District Campgrounds with 11 girls ages 11-15. We had no idea that our weekend would be filled with so much learning, growing and meaning.

Sheila Apple Cummings was our faithful and fearless leader for the weekend. Along with our sponsor, Mrs. Louis Wolfgang, Sheila did an excellent job of keeping us busy and excited about the weekend's events. Activities included relay games, crafts, nature hiking, funny (and foreign) films, devotions, lots of songs, and terrific meals (Sigma's favorite).

Mrs. Joy Vastbinder was our chaplain for the weekend. She spoke to us on the topic of "You Can Experience: Friendship, Beauty, Reality, and God's Love." The sessions were very meaningful for Sigma and T.P.S. girls. Other devotional thoughts were shared by Polli Rypchinski and Kim King.

Sigma members who shared in the weekend were Sheila Cummings, Debbie Mann, Juanita Hawk, Susan Strickland, Karla Oglesby, Susan Rector, Polli Rypchinski, Kim King, Sarah Adams, Karen Michael, Terri McCue, and Teresa Hunt. If you ask any of them what Sigma retreat is all about, I'm sure they'll tell you "it's a glamorous life of fame and fortune."

The Sigma Society would also like to introduce their new members. They are: Wendy Witbeck, bride; Carla Scott, maid of honor; Celeste Thompson, groom; Tanya Butler, best man; Julie Pelton, flower girl; Dawn Douglas, singer; Cheryl Jackson, preacher; Lori Morsch, father of the bride; Becky Clem, mother of the bride; and Teresa Stinson, ring bearer. The girls portrayed characters from a hillbilly wedding.

One day instead of serving the usual hot meal, the school cafeteria handed out peanut butter and jelly sandwiches.

After lunch, a satisfied first grader marched out the door and complimented the cafeteria manager: "Finally, you gave us a home-cooked meal!"

General Eisenhower used to demonstrate the art of leadership with a simple piece of string. He'd put it on a table and say: pull it and it'll follow wherever you wish. Push it and it will go nowhere at all. It's just that way when it comes to leading people.

Knear Leaves Forensics Position

by Tom Felder

Dr. Jim Quiggins, chairman of the Communication Studies Department, has announced that Professor Jim Knear will be leaving his position as Director of Forensics to assume the duties of a full-time classroom teacher in the department. The change will go into effect this fall, at which time Robbie Little will officially become Director of Forensics and Drama.

Knear, who acquired the position in January, 1978, wants to spend more time with his family, as well as, devote more time to classroom teaching. Thus, he felt it best that he leave his Forensics position. He stressed, however, that this does not mean a shift in attitudes towards the program, rather, in his opinion, a step that will lead to better things.

The Trevecca Forensics Team is composed of students desiring to improve their communication skills through regular competition. The squad travels to over a dozen tournaments each year, competing for trophies against other colleges and universities. This year it is composed of 17 students, as opposed to five when Knear took over the program three years ago.

According to Knear, Trevecca's Forensic squad has built up a reputation as a powerhouse in speech competition. So far this year, the team has won approximately 30 trophies, beating out such Ivy League schools as Harvard and Dartmouth and big universities like Southern California. He stated that Trevecca's tournament, held here on campus each year, is also known on the forensics circuit as one of the best in the area.

Reflecting on the past few years, Knear felt that the forensics program has not only met its goal in improving the speech skills and confidence of the participants, but that the team members have also learned how to compete. He feels that their philosophy — "first to learn; secondly to have fellowship and contact with students of other schools and; thirdly to win" — has made Trevecca's squad unique.

Looking to the future, Knear expressed complete confidence in Robbie Little. He believes that she has the skill and qualifications to continue the program's winning reputation, as well as the ability to work closely with students. He also feels that the program will grow to include more students. He stressed that, since our mission is to take the gospel to the world, the program is important, not only to prospective ministers, but to all students.

Jim Knear graduated from Trevecca in 1967 and received a Masters in Public Address from the University of Missouri in Kansas City. While there, he served as Director of Forensics at Bethany Nazarene College until 1971, at which time he entered the ministry before returning to Trevecca. He is presently working towards a Masters in Mass Communication at Tennessee State University. The Forensics Tournament at Western Kentucky, April 23-27, will be his last as director.

Job Seekers Find "Success"

A new "Job Seeker's Success Kit," designed to help graduates "sell" themselves into a new job easily, is now available from the Center for Career Development, Inc., Cincinnati. The author is Phyllis Martin, a career counselor who has conducted more than 50,000 job interviews for one of the Fortune Top '50 companies. She also served as the first president of the International Association of Career Women. Her series on "job seeking and finding" is now airing nationally on public television.

In this new kit, Martin describes a proven plan and the techniques that help the job seeker get, in the shortest time possible, the best job for which he or she is qualified.

"They teach you how to be an accountant or welder through regular classroom courses, but the traditional education system doesn't teach you how to get a job in your field," according to Martin. "I developed the Kit to help fill that educational gap."

The Kit is an "Action Road Map" which enables job seekers to find the opportunities they want and then stand out from other candidates. The basic premise is that the applicant is "selling" himself or herself to a prospective employer.

"To do this, you must bolster your confidence," Martin says. "Distilling my experience as a career counselor, I have worked into the Kit practical aids to do this, as well as to gain other 'edges' on competitors for an opening. With new self-confidence," she says, "job seekers can cut weeks or even months off the time required to find a job. This results in earlier, higher earnings."

The Kit is divided into seven sections and covers where jobs can be found and where to get the "right" job for you. Included are "prospect cards," typical application forms, and other action devices covering Tact is the art of making a point without making an enemy.

One thing common to most success stories is the alarm clock.

resume writing, etc.

Among the subjects discussed are: the single best source of jobs leads which are often overlooked; writing and using a result-producing resume; the "attitude" that opens doors; dress and speech "turn-offs" to avoid; selling your strong points in an interview; the 16 most frequently asked and other "hot" interview questions; subjects to avoid in an interview; and even how to handle rejection and turn it into success. The "Job Seeker's Success Kit" leads a job seeker and tests proficiency on various points.

Free information on the Kit which sells for $19.95, can be obtained by writing the Center for Career Development, Inc., 11383 Landan Lane, Ohio 45246. Orders may be placed with check or VISA and Master charge in the same way if credit card number and expiration date are included.

R-R-R-I-N-N-G-G

by Tom Felder

A modern, new phone system, eagerly awaited for some time, is due to begin operation June 14, according to Chief Fiscal Officer, M.L. White. Mr. White reports that designers are already on campus drawing up plans for the system. Some equipment has arrived and construction is due to begin in a couple of weeks.

The new system is being installed by, and is a product of NEC Telephones, Inc. of New York, with the expected cost being about $300,000.

However, says White, student fees will not be raised because of this. According to White, this cost will be paid over a period of about ten years. This will actually represent a savings, since the present system is owned by South Central Bell and only "rented" by Trevecca, whereas, the new system will, after it is paid for, belong to the college.

The primary advantage of the new system is that it is so much more modern than the system presently in use. The large, out-of-date switchboard will be replaced by two compact, computerized boards. Modern pushbutton phones will also be installed in each room, according to Pat Meade, Switchboard Supervisor.

Other advantages include a new efficient dialing system. While students will still have to go through switchboard to make long distance phone calls, they will be able to receive calls directly from the outside. This alleviates problems of receiving local and long distance phone calls late at night after switchboard closes, and will be accomplished by the use of seven-digit numbers for each phone.

NEC is an independent communications corporation which has installed systems in such places as the 2,000-phone St. Vincents Hospital in New York and 12,000-phone Heritage, USA in the Carolinas.

Religion Retreat

by Sheri McMurrin

The Tennessee District Campgrounds in Dickson, Tennessee was the site of the 1981 Religion Retreat, April 6-7.

The retreat, attended by most religion majors and minors, provided two days of spiritual growth for those involved in Trevecca's Religion department. Its main purpose was to give the students a chance to get off "the hill" into a different environment, relax, and become closer to Christ.

The speaker for the retreat was Neil Wiseman. He conducted four services with special emphasis on the things that are involved in being a pastor. He also spoke about commitment to one's work and, especially, to Christ.

The students also enjoyed other activities, such as hiking, softball and group games. A special moment involved a devotional time on the top of a nearby mountain.

After returning on Tuesday night, many of the students expressed satisfaction with this year's retreat. Not only did these students testify to a closer walk with Christ, and, in some cases changed attitudes toward their mission, but they also began making plans to attend again next year.

TISL

by Sherry Lowe

The Tennessee Intercollegiate State Legislature is an annual assembly of apportioned student representatives from colleges and universities across the state of Tennessee. The four-day mock assembly convenes during the latter portion of fall quarter each year.

The purpose of this assembly is to provide students, who are genuinely interested in the legislative process, to act as the Tennessee General Assembly. Each school is allowed to send one Senator, and an apportioned number of Representatives, according to enrollment figures. Each year Trevecca is allowed one Senator and one Representative.

Each delegation brings prepared legislation for discussion and presentation in both the Senate and the House of Representatives. Some legislation may receive priority by being submitted before the actual convening of the assembly. We hope this may be done by our delegation this coming year.

Are there any requirements for going to the assembly? Only a sincere interest and desire to learn of, and participate in the legislative process, and a willingness to give not only four days, but to work the many hours required for a successful delegation, and ultimately a successful assembly.

More than just a Senator and a Representative are needed. People are needed who can help to prepare legislation and alternates for both position. These four days can carry one hour credit, if you register for it in the fall.

If you want to know more about TISL, or are interested in becoming a part of our delegation for 1981, call Sherry Lowe at ext. 555, or put a note in Box 004 (Sometimes, she's hard to find!). Last year, those four days were wonderful. Be a part of TISL next year!

You're a Good Man Charlie Brown

by Anita Thompson

This quarter, on May 7, 8, and 9, Lyceum will present You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown.

Robbie Little is directing the production, with Dave Edwards as her assistant. Jim Jarrett will take charge of the musical side of the production.

Miss Little said she was very pleased with the turnout at the production's auditions. She felt pressure in casting roles because there were several excellent candidates for the 6 parts.

After much deliberation, parts went to Mark Hodge, Charlie Brown; Jimmy Cannon, Linus; Brad Jones, Schroeder; Chuck Lovell, Snoopy; Carol Herring, Patty; and Sharlee Haynes, Lucy.

Kenny Westenberger was chosen as set manager, and Jeff Croft will handle lights. Lisa Smith will design costumes.

Robbie Little is excited about this production. She thinks it will go over very well at Trevecca. 'Charlie Brown' is the fourth major musical production to be undertaken in recent years. Most recently, Music Man, The Sound of Music, and Camelot have been produced.

You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown is taken from the Charles Schultz series of comic strips brought to life. If you like Peanuts, you will really love this show! All of the wisdom sought by adults, but found only by children is portrayed within the pencil fights, baseball games, and scenes with the little red-haired girl.

Tickets will be offered soon. They are $2.00 for adults, and $1.50 for children 12 and under. Mark 8 p.m. down on your calendar for May 7, 8, or 9, and plan to enjoy your evening.

Circle K Brings Home The Honors

Once again, Trevecca's Circle K headed to the 1981 Circle K District Convention. This year it was held in Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Circle K left with great anticipation, hoping to bring home the top award in their division.

"I'm happy to report that we did just that," stated Don Garrison, speaking of the second top award that Circle K has received in a row. "We were in competition with 9 other colleges from the Kentucky-Tennessee District, and many fine achievement reports were submitted, but one judge told me "Trevecca Circle K is in a class all its own."

The achievement report that was submitted by Trevecca's Circle K organization included accomplishments like the Volleyball Marathon for M.S. (if you haven't yet turned in your pledge, please do so immediately), work with the kids at Tennessee Preparatory School, the Bloodmobile drives, the Student Directory and on and on. All in all, Circle K logged over 5,000 manhours of service to the campus and community.

Veteran's Club News

by Sheri McMurrin

The Trevecca Veteran's Club is an organization whose members are veterans or dependents of veterans.

You may have noticed that now you can see the flag flying over the campus. The credit goes to the members of the Veteran's Club who bought the new flag and cleaned the brush and bushes away from the pole.

Another activity the club plans is the addition of caution signs to be put up around the Married Student Apartments, so drivers will watch for children playing in those areas. Other future plans are a bowling party, a Memorial Day Chapel Service, and a meeting with the Administration.

This Veterans-Administration meeting is for all veterans and dependents. Interested outsiders are welcome also. In this meeting many questions and discussions will be presented on such programs as: Education, Education Rehabilitation, Veteran's Loan Guarantees, Training, G.I. Loans, Agent Orange, and Medical Care.

The club's officers are: Tom Rucci - President, Jim Diehl - Vice President, and J.C. Lawlon - Secretary/Treasurer.

The club has had a hard time getting people involved because most of its members are older and have many more responsibilities than the younger students. But the Veteran's keep active and are interested in gaining new members.

For more information about the Veteran's contact Tom Rucci or Carl Carlson.

STUDENTS ELECT NEW LEADERS

Dwight Gunter, a Junior, Religion major, from Columbia, South Carolina, was elected Associated Student Body President for 1981-82, after three days of voting last week. Six of the nine races were uncontested. The results of those were: D. Gunter, 97% yes/ 3% no; K. King, 87% yes/13% no; C. Herring, 93% yes/ 7% no; E. Darling 98% yes/ 2% no; T. Felder, 96% yes/ 4% no, and B. Gillespie, 95% yes/ 5% no.

The race for Vice President of Spiritual Life also had three candidates. Rocky Jenkins won with 60%, while Lloyd Brock had 32%, and Debbie Blakeman had 8%.

In the third contested race Finley Knowles was re-elected as Vice President of Social Life. Knowles received 72% of the vote, while his opponent, David Caldwell got 28%.

RED CROSS ASSIGNMENTS AVAILABLE

Red Cross volunteer assignments which combine community service with field placement experience are available to college and university students, according to Yvonne Brandon, Assistant Director of Red Cross Youth and Student Volunteer Coordinator.

"Students can work in many fields, some unheard of ten years ago," Ms. Brandon said. She listed assignments in recreational and educational areas, work with the handicapped, safety course instruction, counseling, or as volunteers in crisis-intervention or Juvenile Corrections. "Additional assignments," Ms. Brandon said, "are available in hospitals, nursing homes, day care centers, or the Red Cross Bloodmobiles."

After training the American Red Cross assigns students in areas as requested. "Supervision is given and volunteers gain valuable experience in areas of interest of future career fields," Ms. Brandon said.

Those interested should call the Red Cross Youth Office, telephone 327-1931, ext. 224.

DISC NEWS

by Dan Wilkinson

Ressurrection Band • Colours • Light

"Danger—High Potent Vinyl Ahead!" If you are searching for good, high powered rock'n roll with the straightforward lyrics of the hope in Christ, you will find these qualifications on this disc. The female vocalist can be compared to ones of "heart" and the male vocalist compared to (God forbid and forgive) AC/DC. If you've been searching for a high powered, electrocuting album with the straightforward message of Truth, then buy it! It won't let you down.

DeGarmo and Key Band • This Ain't Hollywood • Lamb & Lion

Obviously "this ain't Hollywood" because it's Nashville, and the album sounds like it isn't Hollywood either! Their past album, Straight On, was packed with action and production, but they have "bubble-gummed" their newest release. It seems that a gospel group of this calibre would not throw together an album that sounds like it was thrown together. Some may enjoy the album, but to me it was a big letdown.

Reba • Confessions • Light

The album was tightly produced with her "new" husband, Dony McGuire. Some of the songs relate to the utter despair that is reached when we don't let Christ control our total life. All the songs were delightfully composed and are songs that can be applied to our lives. There is no doubt that Reba has developed and mastered her style of music. Reba now has a "Fan Club."

Joe English • Lights in the World • Refuge

The fresh and exuberant faith of this new child of God is bubbling all over this LP. In his earlier days, he had the privilege of playing percussion with Paul McCartney and Wings for 3 years. Fame and fortune could not provide the peace and happiness that he has found in the Lord. The album is a good collection of simple songs backed by an excellent production.

Spyro Gyra • Carnaval • MCA

The jazz masterpiece of 1980. This LP is overflowing with delicious and attractive musical ideas with some of the most exciting musical performances. The songs are relaxing, great to study by and just plain fun.

MEET THE MILLERS!

by David Allen

Susan Johnson-Miller and Darrell Miller have just recently moved into Tennessee Dorm as the new dorm parent-counselors.

Susan is 26 and a native of Detroit, Michigan. She graduated from Olivet Nazarene College in 1969 and went on to get her Masters in Instruction Technology at Wayne State University in Detroit, where the couple met.

Along with her education, Mrs. Miller taught public school in Detroit and worked for the Nazarene Communications Headquarters in Kansas City. She has served as children's minister in both Xenia, Ohio, and Oklahoma City, Oklahoma and is presently serving at First Church of the Nazarene in Nashville.

Darrell is 29 and a native of Xenia. Last year, he was on the faculty at Bethany Nazarene College as placement director. He is presently working on his Masters in Church Music and Organ Performance at Scarritt College.

The Millers say so far they enjoy being dorm parents except when they receive calls at 4 in the morning saying someone who isn't signed out isn't in yet.

They have several plans underway already for the girls in the dorm. There are plans to redecorate the second floor prayer chapel with funds made from a proposed dorm yard sale.

Afte the Chapel is done, the plans are to work on a study room and some extras in the lounge.

The Millers closed their interview with smiles. Susan closed, saying, "All of our girls are nice girls," and Darrell added, "We have only top quality high bred, wonderful girls!"

Area runners are invited to join America's Love fun benefiting the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Register by April 30 and then ask friends to make a pledge for each mile you may run in May. For details, call 329-9460.

Jazz Group Appears At Tennessee Theater

NASHVILLE—Southern rock group, The Dregs appear Friday, April 24, 1981 at the Tennessee Theater. Special guests are the Stan Lassiter Grupe. Showtime is 8:00 p.m.

A rather unusual origin belongs to The Dregs, in that they were formed for college credit. The University of Miami School of Music has one of the finest reputations in the country and boasts an innovative and effective jazz curriculum.

What if, released in 1978 and produced by Ken Scott, noted for his work with Paul McCartney, John McLaughlin and Supertramp, increased their momentum. After an LA performance, praise came from notables like Jean-Luc-Ponty, John McLaughlin, and Stanley Clarke.

Then came an invitation to appear at the historic Montreaux Jazz Festival. Montreaux went so well that one side of their LP, Night of the Living Dregs, represents highlights of that performance including the fascinating title tune, the rollicking uniquely-country flavored "The Bash," and the lively, witty "Leprechaun Promenade."

The Stan Lassiter Grupe was formed over four years ago by four Madison, Tennessee musicians. The band has played on local college campuses and on the club circuit in the Nashville area.

All of the material that is played is original and all is instrumental.

The group includes Stan Lassiter-guitar/violin, Randy Bowles-drums, Mark Tallent-bass, and Costo Davis-multiple keyboards. The group is currently in search of a management and/or record deal and hope that one is soon in the works.

The Dregs and the Stan Lassiter Grupe are presented by SOUND SEVENTY PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Suggestions for Using Positive Faith

1. Affirm faith every day: "I believe, I believe, I believe."
2. When you are out of ideas turn to faith. God will supply you with new and better ones.
3. Always remember God uses your mind to release insights when faith clears away the mental blocks.
4. Practice faith in the Lord, for it is the greatest power for your positive use.
5. Put your life completely in God's hands; trust and believe always. Miracles can happen. The power of positive living will result.

Travellers' Rest

Nestled in the quiet wooded seclusion of the Nashville suburbs stands a simple home which has witnessed much of the history of Tennessee's development from a raw frontier to a modern state.

Travellers' Rest was the home of John Overton, one of Tennessee's most influential statesmen who served as political confidant to President Andrew Jackson. Within its walls many political strategy sessions were conducted with such historical figures as Jackson, John Eaton, General James Winchester and Sam Houston in attendance.

The extensive restoration of Travellers' Rest began in 1954 when the National Society of Colonel Dames was given the home by the L&N Railroad. The society has also built a gift shop and visitors center where a brief film reviews the life of John Overton.

Travellers' Rest is located six miles north of Nashville on Farrell Parkway just off Franklin Road. It is open to visitors Monday through Saturday from 9-4 and Sunday from 1-4.

Tickets are $2 for adults, 50c for children aged 6 to 12, and free for children under six. Special arrangements can be made for touring senior citizens and elementary school children.

For more details, phone 832-2962.

Donkey Basketball

by Don Garrison

If you have never seen a Donkey basketball game, you will not want to miss the fun and excitement on April 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the TNC fieldhouse. The game will be played in a tournament-type fashion.

The first game will be played between the Trojans of Trevecca and the Lipscomb Bisons. The winner of that will play the faculty team, consisting of Dr. "J" Quiggins, Bill McKay, Steve Harris and others, or a team of Nazarene pastors such as Talmage Johnson, Ed Nash, Gerald Parmer and Steve Green.

It should be a very interesting event, with such talent out on the court. Everyone is urged to attend. Tickets will be $2.00 in advance, and $2.50 at the door.

At 10:50 the preaching stops—even if you aren't ready to stop. It is time to express salutations and head the Ford back toward Santa Fe and on to the Mt. Wesley church.

The Mt. Wesley people are waiting for the minister's arrival. They had their Sunday school at 10 a.m.. When these two churches are visited again, in two weeks the order of services will be reversed. Thus, each of the four churches on the circuit has one 10 a.m. and one 11 a.m. preaching service each month.

The churches at Fly and Hilltown are having Sunday School, but no preaching service today. Next Sunday, the circuit rider will go to those two churches while Akin Chapel and Mt. Wesley have Sunday School and no preaching services.

Among the first, at Mt. Wesley, to greet the minister is Rev. E.P. Boyett who rode this circuit for 30 years before retiring in 1972. He still serves, in his retirement, as the assistant pastor of the circuit.

At 11 a.m., the Mt. Wesley service begins with 27 people present.

There is going to be dinner-on-the-ground. Dinner includes such things as country ham, chicken (can you believe a circuit riding preacher that doesn't like chicken?), beans of various kinds, potatoes, pimento cheese sandwiches, cornbread (fried and plain), salads, iced tea, and coffee.

After dinner there are visits to be made to the sick and shut-ins in the community. The first home is up a hollow, around the ridge, through one or two "cricks," and over the hill. The second home is located closer to the highway on the way to Columbia.

Mauzy County Hospital in Columbia has four patients that need to be visited. One is in the Coronary Care Unit. Two others still on the call list from the previous Sunday, have been dismissed.

By 5 p.m., it is time to start back toward Nashville, but not straight home, as there are two more hospitals to visit.

Nashville is approached at 6:15 as the Ford veers left on the Interstate Loop. Instead of going right toward home, the circuit rider visits with a patient in St. Thomas Hospital.

From St. Thomas, he makes his way through Nashville to Baptist Hospital to visit two more patients. One is in intensive care and is seriously ill.

At 8 p.m., the circuit rider has completed his "circuit" and arrives at home.

He has driven approximately 150 miles, preached twice, had dinner on the ground, visited in two homes and three hospitals, and is ready to put that foot back in bed.

Bethany Wins NAIA Tournament

On Saturday, March 14, 1981, the Bethany Nazarene College Redskins climaxed their 1981 basketball season by winning the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Championship in Kansas City's Kemper Arena before a crowd including several thousand Nazarenes from the Bethany and Kansas City areas. The Redskins squeezed out an 86-85 overtime victory over the University of Alabama-Huntsville. It was the first overtime championship game in NAIA history, and was also the first time a Nazarene college has won the championship.

Todd Thurman, sophomore forward from Yukon, Okla., led the Redskins in scoring with 39 points. George Torres, senior guard from Puerto Rico, was voted Most Valuable Player of the Tournament. Torres and Thurman were both elected to the first all-tournament team.

Earlier, Bethany defeated four other teams to qualify for the championship game. They won over Chicago State 69-63; over Southern Tech of Georgia 88-58; over Augsburg of Minnesota 84-69; and over Wisconsin Eau Claire 62-54.

Civinettes

by Tom Felder

The Trevecca chapter of the Collegiate Civinettes Club returned this week from a weekend retreat-convention at Paris Landing, Tennessee, with some awards for their collection.

The convention was a meeting of the Valley District Collegiate Civitans, and included clubs from David Lipscomb and Freede-Hardeman, as well as Trevecca. The club brought home 3 awards, plus a runner-up in the Miss Valley District Pageant.

Trevecca's chapter, in their first year after separation from the Jaycettes last year, took an impressive list of activities to the convention and was given the award for "Club of the Year." They also brought home the award for "Most Improved Club," as well as the Johnny White President's Award honoring the outstanding work of club president, Lynn Wilson. Marianne Booth received second runner-up in the district pageant.

However, the Civinettes did not come back and rest on their accomplishments. They were back at work last Wednesday conducting a book fair. The proceeds from this activity will go towards putting carpet on the library's top floor.

The club is also planning several other activities for this quarter. They will be at Rivergate Mall Saturday, April 18, raising money for World Vision International. Their program will include a film on the activities of World Vision, after which they will be accepting donations. They will also be selling candy.

The Civinettes are continuing to grow and are accepting applications for membership. They are planning a luau sometime next week in honor of the new members.

TIA NEWS

by Brenda Brodien

WRESTLING:

On Saturday, April 4, TIA sponsored a wrestling tournament. There were 3 weight classes with double elimination. Due to the fact that we couldn't "weight" till we had more guys, several of the weight classes had to be combined, giving a somewhat unfair advantage to some participants. But fun was the main objective and the events were enjoyed by all.

The winner of the 126-141 weight class was Bruce Thompson. D.R. Henderson was second and Walt Brown came in 3rd. After watching the 150-165 weight class, no one questioned what the Geasley boys did for fun while they were growing up! Mike Geasley placed first, Thor Simenson came in 2nd, and Tony Geasley won 3rd.

In the Middle-Heavyweight division, Gregg Ruff was just what his name says, as he took first place. Mark Smith came in 2nd and Darell Smith wrestled for 3rd. We'd like to thank all who participated and hope this can become an annual event.

SOFTBALL:

It's Spring quarter and with that comes Intramural Softball! All the action started last Saturday. And for the first time in 4 years we did not "strike out" when it came to the girls' games. We were short about 5 girls for enough to play 2 games so ALPHA & DELTA paired up against BETA & GAMMA. The BETA/GAMMA team started dominating in the first inning by scoring 7 runs. The first home run of the season was hit by Beta Rep Brenda Steen. The action continued with the game ending 19-9.

(GIRLS—You won't know what you're missing unless you come out and join the fun. All the action starts at 10 a.m. on Saturdays, finishing by 11 a.m., leaving you plenty of time to lay out and become bronzed beauties.)

The guys' softball is being played by floors this year; 1st floor played 2nd floor on Saturday. In the 3rd inning it was 5-0. 1st floor, then 2nd floor made a comeback, but it just wasn't enough to pull it out, ending the game 7 to 4. Greg Pemberton and Bob King, each from opposing teams, were the hitters of the homeruns in the game.

The 3rd floor team went into the game feeling pretty confident, remembering their championship season last year. It looks like they haven't lost much of their talent because they virtually crushed 4th floor, leaving the score 12-2. Two home runs were hit by Howard Wilson and Billy Yon.

The last game of the day came to a close finish. TMA started off booming with 7 runs in the first inning, but left the other 6 innings scoreless. The sub-basement/married team scored 6 runs but just couldn't pull it out soon enough. The only homerun hit in the game was by Randy Parmer, from the sub-basement team.

The schedule for future games goes like this:

April 18: Girls: 10:00 a.m.
1st vs 3rd: 11:15
2nd vs 4th: 12:15
TMA vs Circle K: 1:15

April 25: Girls: 10:00 a.m.
2nd vs 3rd: 11:15
1st vs 4th: 12:15
Married/Sub-basement vs Circle K: 1:15

Today's Laugh

The backwoods preacher was being ordained. The interrogator asked him, "Do you know the Bible?"

"Yes, sir."

"What part of the Bible do you know best?"

"I know the story of the good Samaritan best."

"Tell it to us."

"There was a good Samaritan

"There was a good Samaritan going down from Jerusalem to Jericho and he fell among thorns and they sprang up and choked him and left him half dead. And he said, "I will arise!" and he arose and came to a tree and he got hung in the limbs of the tree and he hung there forty days and nights and the ravens fed him. Delilah came along with a pair of shears and she cut off his hair and he fell on stony ground. He said "I will arise, and he arose and came to a wall and Jezebel was sitting on the wall and she mocked him—and he said "Chunk her down" and they chunked her down. Then he said "Chunk her down again" and they chunked her down again. He said "Chunk her down seventy times seven" and great was the fall thereof and of the fragments that remained they picked up twelve baskets full and whose wife will she be in the resurrection."
