Margie Dover and Larry Schulz Present "A Night to Remember"

The Senior Class presented Miss Margie Dover and Mr. Larry Schulz in a joint senior recital Friday, March 13.

"A Night to Remember" was the theme for both recitalists. Mr. Schulz presented a speech recital taken from the book entitled A Night to Remember by Walter Lord. This was a factual study of what happened the night the Titanic went down. The Titanic was on its maiden voyage from London to New York on April 14, 1912. This was the largest passenger ship of its day. Of the twenty-two hundred people on the ship, only six hundred seventy-five were picked up by the Carpathic which came to their rescue.

Mr. Schulz was dressed in a captain's uniform, and the stage had the effects of a ship. The recitalist impersonated a present day master on a ship who was a steward on the Titanic the night it went down.

Miss Dover presented a voice recital with Miss Sylvia Young as accompanist. She was dressed in a floor length aqua and white net formal, with a tiered skirt.

Numbers presented were: "I Know My Redeemer Liveth," Handel; "Come Unto Him," Handel; "Du Bist Wu Eine Blume," Schumann; "Muth," Schubert; "Der Sturmische Morgen," Schubert; "Let My Songs Fill Your Heart," Charles; "Little Boy Blue," Neven; "Where the Bee Sucks," Arne; "Carmena," Wilson; "When I Have Sung My Songs to You," Charles.

At the close of the recital Mr. Schulz was presented a gift from the Senior Class, of which he is president, and Miss Dover received flowers from Mr. James Stewart.

Following the recital a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Greene. Ushers for the occasion were Donnie Smith, Jackson Phillips, Wendell Poole, and Joe Moses.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Schulz from Arlington, Virginia, and Mr. James Stewart, Augusta, Georgia.

Sophomores Present "Call It A Day"

The Sophomore Class presented a one-act comedy, "Call It A Day," on Friday evening, March 6, in the Fine Arts Auditorium. The play was under the direction of the sophomore class sponsor, Miss Barbara McClain.

The two main characters were Joe Moses, who played Dr. Culver, and Marilyn Stucki, who played his wife, Mrs. Culver.

The play was centered around a doctor's office, and the audience looked in on his reception room happenings. It appeared that Mrs. Culver was taking the place of her husband's receptionist for the day because the receptionist was ill. At first, Mrs. Culver considered that her job would be very easy, and even when the doctor mentioned giving the regular receptionist a raise in salary, Mrs. Culver implied that her services were not worth another salary raise.

After a hectic day with the many different patients, Mrs. Culver was ready to admit her mistake. She concluded that she would not work for her husband for "a thousand dollars."

Others participating in the play were Robert Mitchell, Judy Magnusson, Robbie Mitchell, Chuck Acheson, Wendell Poole, Mary Tom Webb, Ruby Jones, Joy Wilcox, Phyllis Lobb, Nelia Ann Lunn, Sylvia Young, Orval Le Jeune, Barbara Barnett, Melba Robbins, Sharon Davis, Bess Pearson, Darlene Cain, Theresa Gunter, Tommy Mitchell, Melvin Welch, Joyce Woodard, Ann Benson, Ida Vaughan, Karen Cox, Edith Mingleorff, Forrest Wise, Linda Spruill, Joe Hampton, Rickie Unruh and Carolyn Wiley.

The play was well attended and the audience seemed to enjoy this evening of hilarity.

Benson Lecture Series Is A Success

The twelfth series of the Benson Lectures was held February 23-27. The special speaker this year was Dr. S. T. Ludwig, General Church secretary and executive secretary of the Department of Education.

The lecture series are sponsored by Mr. John T. Benson, Jr., in memory of his late father, Mr. Benson, Sr., who was a loyal supporter of Trevecca.

Dr. Ludwig brought very inspiring messages each morning in chapel and in the evening at College Hill Church. Several found definite help from the Lord during the week. Dr. Ludwig was referred to by Dr. Mackey as being a "Christian Gentleman." Certainly, the students found this to be true. The Christ-like manner in which he delivered the sermons was a great blessing to all.

The faculty honored him with a reception, and he spoke to the Ministerial Association during his week with us.

Mr. Chisholm Lectures To Sociology Class

"Social Security is something that you must pay for . . . it is not a welfare program in any way at all," so said Mr. C. V. Chisholm, an extremely competent representative of the Bureau of Old Age and Survivors Insurance, in a recent lecture to the sociology class.

Using a five-point outline, he explained what Social Security actually is, who gets it, how much they get, the plan's effect upon the entire economic structure of our country, and the future outlook of this ever-expanding program.

Mr. Chisholm's pleasing sense of humor and thorough knowledge of his field seemed to leave with every student a concise, factual picture of the United States Government's compulsory program to aid the aged. Enacted by Congress in 1936, Social Security is just what its official bureaucratic name implies, a government insurance program designed to help the aged and family survivors who are no longer able to help themselves.

WEST VIRGINIA CARAVAN

Approximately 50 West Virginians visited on campus March 17, 18 and 19. They were entertained in like manner as the Alabamians, the highlight being the banquet at which approximately 70 people were present. There was no definite theme of the banquet, but the program centered around the connecting link between West Virginia and Tennessee.

Rev. Harvey Hendershot, district superintendent, was special speaker in chapel, Wednesday, March 18.

Dr. Mackey's Office Is Redecorated

Have you seen Dr. Mackey's "new" office? No, it hasn't been relocated, just completely redecorated.

The Board of Trustees authorized the remodeling, which included the adjoining reception room. A committee from the board, headed by Rev. Victor E. Gray, planned for this much-needed project with Mr. V. Neil Richardson, business manager, supervising the work which was done by our campus maintenance men.

The ceiling is covered with acoustical tile; the walls are of the very attractive Philippine-paneling. In both offices one wall is painted a light, cheery green. In each room is found an attractive green telephone. The lighting is indirect; the heating thermostat — controlled. Blending well with the furnishings are the beige drapes, interwoven with a darker tone design. It is interesting to note that the decorating of these offices was so well planned that even the wastebaskets match the other items of furniture.

Distinctive features of the reception room, which also serves as the secretary's office, are the large comfortable chairs, the literature table, and the beautiful mahogany desk.

In the president's office, there is a unique lamp with a postage-stamp design on the base. Dr. Mackey's desk is a combination desk and conference table of the same mahogany wood as the rest of the furnishings. A gift from Mrs. Mackey, a combination clock-barometer and pen set, looks very nice on the desk.

Go by and see the "new" office. You'll realize as you step on the carpet, that this is truly an office fit for our president!!

Conserve Your Time!

Each student on campus should take out a little time from each day to do nothing but have a good time, even if it isn't but thirty or forty-five minutes. It seems that a person builds up tension following a crowded schedule, and it must be released in some way. Do something! Go to the recreation room, get together with a few friends, take a part in the school activities, or anything to release the tension and just be yourself. We have all heard the expression, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." You must beware of this or you will find that you have a one-sided personality. In order to avoid this, make yourself a trial schedule to go by for a couple of days; then make any necessary improvements. Plan a time for sleeping, eating, studying, and playing. This will give you time to do the things you haven't had time for and you will enjoy your college life to a fullest extent.

You Tell On Yourself

You tell what you are by the friends you seek,
By the very manner in which you speak,
By the way you employ your leisure time,
By the use you make of dollar and dime.

You tell what you are by the things you wear,
By the spirit in which you your burdens bear,
By the kind of things at which you laugh,
By the records you play on the phonograph.

You tell what you are by the way you walk,
By the things of which you delight to talk,
By the manner in which you bear defeat,
By so simple a thing as how you eat.

By the books you choose for the well-filled shelf;
In these ways and more, you tell on yourself.
So there's really no particle of sense
In any effort at false pretense.

—The War Cry

Caravans, Caravans!

This is the time of the year when the caravans from the southeastern states come to T.N.C. to view the campus and become acquainted with the way of life here.

On March 12 and 13 approximately 175 Alabamians visited the campus. While here they attended a conference where they were told about the school plan and were permitted to ask questions. Some attended classes; all were taken on a tour of the college campus and then on a tour of Nashville.

The highlight of their stay was the banquet held in the college cafeteria Thursday evening, where 202 people were present. The theme of the banquet was "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

Rev. L. S. Oliver, District Superintendent, spoke in chapel Friday, March 13.

Flickering Foundations

The Church and the Christian alone can limit the Holy One of Israel. With the diluting of the Word, the crystallization of our creeds, and the deification of our doctrines, we have produced fickleness in our ranks! God save us from a flickering, wavering, flexible, crumbling foundation; but help us to continue to lay the holiness foundation as did our forefathers. Thank God, we can believe in the old time religion as our fathers received long ago!

Who is there among us with an unquenchable thirst for God? Many can uncover the sins of others, but who can find the presence of God? This is the very reason many of us are at the dead-end street. Revivals do not come when we are satisfied with our spiritual condition.

Yes, I know the Church has always had its conflicts—the New Testament Church did; but in the face of conflicts, God has always found a Christian to bring the Church face to face with a Conquering Christ! May we not surrender because of conflicts, but hew to the old line, lifting the blood stained banner of the Cross to this dying age. So what if Americans get to the moon? They will still need a Savior. And He is the One to save the people from their sins.

Christ is able to banish our worldliness; He is able to burn up our wickedness; He is able to bind up our wounds and fire baptize our witness till we shall never cease to tell the Old Story. Never think that this jet age found God asleep! He is the first and the last, the Alpha and the Omega.

Thank God, He will pardon our sins, purge out our iniquities and pity our ignorance, but a lukewarm heart is an abomination in His Holy Sight. Calvary has provided all that we need. We must be hot, flaming, and burning out for God or we will be cast out by God, and rejected by men.

We are not ready to surrender in this age! If this is the Laodicean age, then there is still hope. We can repent and do our first works over again. Oh, if we will but hear His voice and repent!

The answer to any condition spiritually is a visitation of the Holy Spirit. There are people today who are problem conscious, pain conscious, powerless conscious, but it seems that very few are God conscious. Look at Elijah; it was when he had heard the still small voice of God that he went from his hiding place to horrify Jezebel and to cause Ahab, her husband, to lie in the sackcloth of sorrow. Thank God, he turned the tide of sin and prayed for the heavens to be closed for a period of three and a half years.

What America needs is a good crop of old-fashioned preachers to cry out and call sin by its name. We are not dying for preachers; what we are dying for is the right kind. Oh, if our student preachers, while preparing their sermons, could keep their eye on the Light of the Holy Spirit, and at the same time, center their eyes on dying humanity, what a great asset it would be in our future of the Church of the Nazarene. The need of the hour is a fresh awareness of God for our unbelieving nation.

God is our only hope in this day. We have seen Him work in the past, but the past will not suffice for the present. He's still the same, but are we still the same? You ask "Where is the Lord God Of Elijah?" I in return ask, "Where Are God's Elijahs?"

In this day of delusion we must have a revelation of the Divine. Every age must have its move of God, or the next will be more wicked. We had better be turning nations from the power of Satan to God as did John the Baptist, than to die with ecclesiastical honors and theological degrees.

It took the fire-baptized Wesleys to shake England to righteousness. It is going to take that for modern America. Communism is not our biggest foe! Modernism is not our biggest threat! Hollywood is not our biggest monster! Our greatest foe, our greatest threat, our biggest monster, is the fact that we have too many flickering Christian foundations, or may I say "crumbling foundations."

If we will strive, we will prevent flickering foundations in this age and for the ages to come. "Greater Is He That Is In You, Than He That Is In The World."

The Democrat's Squabble

In a previous issue we discussed the possible candidates of the Republican Party in the 1960 Presidential election.

Now let us turn our attention to the controversial but spectacular race inside the Democratic Party.

According to the latest national surveys, there seems to be four men that are leading the rest. They are: Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, and Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas.

Since Vice President Richard Nixon seems to be well ahead of Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York for the Republican nomination; if you were a Democrat, whom would you choose to run against him?

At the present Senator Symington seems to hold the top spot among Democratic party leaders, but only by a very small margin. Some common comments in favor of Symington are: "He's not a controversial individual," and "Symington is right geographically. He is accepted by the South. He has been a successful businessman." In speaking against Symington one Pacific Coast leader said, "I am afraid a Symington candidacy would label the Democrats as a 'war party' just as the Republicans are called the 'party of big business.' That would not be good."

Although he has not made any speeches offensive to the South, yet he hasn't stood for the South either. People should know what a man stands for before they back him wholeheartedly.

A big surprise to many people will be that twice-defeated Adlai Stevenson is high on the list also. (The poor Democrats must really be in need of leaders.) Some say that, "Stevenson looms above all the others. He is more of a national character, more of an international character, than any man we have." But yet others say, "He has lost his public image. He would have to fight hard to overcome the two-time-loser handicap."

Probably the most controversial figure in the picture is Senator

John Kennedy from Massachusetts. Although he is very personable and popular, his religion is definitely against him. If it weren't for that, there would be many more people backing him (including "yours truly"). One of the worst things the United States could do would be to elect a Catholic to the Presidency. This country would then be under indirect control and influence of the Pope. Yet there are a great many people that support him. A Southern Governor said, "The feeling is that Kennedy would give the South a break, although there are doubts about his voting record."

Senator Lyndon Johnson from Texas is among the "Big Four," but he seems to be overshadowed by the ones already mentioned. There are some who like him. He is able and is a middle-of-the-roader. But one person said, "Coming from the South is against him, being from Texas is against him, and having a heart attack is against him."

Although these four seem to stand out in front, a long race is yet to be run. As it stands now, the first-place choice seems to lie between Mr. Symington and Mr. Stevenson, with Mr. Kennedy for second place. But sixteen months is a long time, and many things can change.

If you were going to the Democratic Convention, whom would you cast your ballot for? Make your own decision.

The United States is in a very crucial period right now. The future of the country is at stake. Soon you will be voting for its leader for four long years. Make your choices wisely.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The nickle-a-day mission campaign has ended. As a result I shall never again doubt the missionary spirit of Trevecca Nazarene College. In the short month of February, the students and faculty donated over $325.00 toward the selected mission project.

This amount will be matched dollar-for-dollar by the government of Swaziland, South Africa, and the total will be used to build a one-room Nazarene schoolhouse in the Enderingeni Zone of Swaziland. Rev. Herman Spencer, a former Trevecca professor, has recently returned with his family to assume his responsibilities as superintendent of our missionary work there. The school will be used as both a schoolhouse and a Sunday School where the youth of this heathen land will hear for the first time the wonder-

C. W. A. Notes

by Pat Young

Has it ever proved difficult to prepare a short yet satisfactory message? If so, here are some helpful hints from Rev. Leon Chambers. In a recent Christian Workers Prayer Meeting he gave advice on preparing a message. This should be especially helpful to those without homiletical training.

First of all, keep the purpose of the message in mind. Then be able to state the theme of your message in one sentence.

Limit your subject. Write out special message divisions—not over five in number. Three is best. Move with ease from division to division. They should be clear to both you and your listener. Every point must fit with the other. Make them progressive.

After your own ideas are exhausted, consider other sources on your subject. Be careful that you get relevant material. An over abundance of outside material is unnecessary. It is possible to become bogged down with material and notes.

Illustrations give light. Prepare some pertinent to your theme. Read good literature for illustration ideas.

Develop the ability to tell what you see. Make others feel just what you see, and you will be most likely to convey your ideas!

This is not a homiletical course in a nutshell by any means. But, if you're even approached about speaking at the City Workhouse, Rest Home, etc., try referring to Mr. Chamber's fine suggestions. They may be a "life saver" to you!

ful story of Christ and God's great love.

Many more thanks than I with tongue or pen could ever tell are due every student and professor who had a part in our "going over the top" in this love-offering for the people of Enderingeni. Once again, it has been proved beyond measure that Trevecca is interested in and is doing her part to win the untold millions who are dying untold.

Gratefully,

Mothers-in-Law!

Mrs. Phillips' description: My mother-in-law seems to take my side in every issue. She's such a sensible person!!!

I said to a man who stood at the Gate of the year,
 'Give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown,
 And he replied: Go out into the darkness,
 And put your hand into the hand of God.
 That shall be to you better than a light,
 And safer than a known way.'

MISS PEACH

By Mell

Beetin' the Air

By Bess Pearson

(Beeter)

Springtime is here and the trees are blossoming forth with their new leaves as we, too, put on our new outfits. But as we do, let's not forget the real meaning of Easter.

I was talking to Nancy Rushing one day last week and this is what she told me: (Ader) Karen Cox is smart. If you don't believe it, just ask her. So I asked her and she said she is.

Ray Cowan is improving at St. Thomas Hospital. We surely hope he gets well in a hurry and can be back with us soon.

Judy Magnusson did something very funny the other day, but she told me not to print it because she was embarrassed. So I decided I'd be good and not print it, but if you want to know what she did, just ask her.

The Sophomores put on a cute play entitled, "Call it a Day." Miss McClain, the director, discovered some hidden talent.

Miriam Hudgins saw a chicken the other day and didn't know what it was. Can you imagine?

The Alabama Caravan was here March 12. We were very glad to see such a nice representation. The Alabama Club had a banquet for them Thursday evening. It was all very nice.

Bill Elkins was held-up at the Vanderbilt Plaza last week. I would imagine he was shaking in his boots. I know I would have been.

Congratulations to Nancy Murphy on her recent engagement to Donald Woodard.

The boys' trio returned to campus Monday, March 9. Some of the students were very glad to see them, namely, Sue Hayes and Ann Bohannon.

How does S. O. T. M. B. rate? S. O. T. M. B. has a picture of practically everyone on campus. If you don't know who S. O. T. M. B. is and would like to find out, just ask Mildred Pearson.

Some recent visitors on campus were Mr. and Mrs. Schulz, Larry's parents, and Mr. and Mrs. Robbins and their daughter, Melba's relatives.

Larry's speech recital along with Margie Dover as vocalist was Friday evening, March 13. The performance was indeed very good. Best of luck to both these seniors as they go out into the world to perform in like manner.

Surrounded by loyal friends, Melvin Welch solemnly saluted his Uncle Andrew the other Sunday. Surely he will succeed. (Melvin, that is.)

News is short; so until next time, bye.

P.S.: We're glad Ray Cowan is back!!

Senior Class Presents A Film Forum

The Senior Class presented a film-forum, Saturday evening, February 28, in the Fine Arts Auditorium. The film, The Color of a Man, by the Missionary Alliance Publishing Company was shown, after which a forum was presented. The entire audience were the members of the forum. The question which provided quite a controversial discussion was "Is Segregation Christian?"

Members of a panel who were referred to throughout the evening were Miss Barbara McClain and Mr. William Howick.

To Thee, Lord

I came, at ending of the day
Into Thy Presence
And there—
I laid the stress and cares
Of the day at Thy Feet.
Weary with much toiling
I bowed before Thee—
And gave thanks for
Sustaining grace and love
That Thou didst
Permit me to know
In this Thy day.
I was weary—
And needed Thy touch
Then Thou reached
Into the vast expanse of your grace
And drew out
A soothing portion—
The balm in Gilead—
And bathed my weary soul,
—Filling my heart
With peace and rest—
Love and adoration—
—And determination!
Determination to begin again
Tomorrow
With Thy Grace.

—Mildred Pearson

The Enchanted Loom

Patterns are being woven every moment of every day by an intricate "loom." Everyone possesses this enchanted loom—better known as the human mind.

The weaver (you) determines the type and quality of thread to be used in weaving a product (thought). Colors used by the weaver may be dull or bright—depending upon attitudes and moods. Of course, bright-colored threads are much more desirable than dull, drab threads. Yet, a weaver does not use all frivolous colors lest his weaving become monotonous. Subdued colors are intertwined with the bright to make properly blended products. Could this thought be applied to daily conversations?

Thinking upon light subjects most of the time makes for a dull personality.

This human mind is truly an enchanting subject. Within this "loom" are interesting structures vital to weaving intelligent thinking.

In order to weave constructive thought the mind must be disciplined and guided in this direction. Many times the "enchanted loom" is not used to full capacity.

College students are especially aware of using the mind. Now is the time to weave the threads of basic knowledge on this loom. It is subject to many influences. Only the pure and worthwhile threads should be used by these minds.

The best pattern to follow is that of the Divine Weaver.

ODE TO THE MARCH WIND

Loud wind, awesome wind,
Disastrous at a whim;
Powerful to drive
A flimsy straw through a limb.
Oh, to be as strong and go so far,
To shout your song,
To whisper, then to scream along;
So bold, invisible, wild and lusty.

March wind, roaring loud,
Sound with fury,
Rattling branches, blowing cloud,
Whence do you come, where go
To become a breeze so slow?

—Mary Jane Still

Mrs. Mabel Orndoff Is Head Resident

Mrs. Mabel Orndoff is certainly the most popular person in McKay Hall. From early until late her "daughters" are knocking at her door for assistance in something. But regardless of how many times one knocks on her door, she always hears a friendly "come in."

Day after day and many times until late at night she works unselfishly. No matter what kind of problem anyone might have she is always patient and understanding. Her sweet, loving disposition and Christian character have carried great influence for the right.

Mrs. Orndoff's services are numberless. Not only does she solve problems, but she is constantly taking care of the sick, driving someone to town, helping to entertain visitors, trying to do extras to make the girls happy. The times that she serves pie and coffee are unforgettable.

During study hours each evening while Mrs. Orndoff is "keeping watch" in the lobby she occupies herself with some kind of handwork. It is nothing unusual to see her crocheting some frilly piece or embroidering a beautiful design.

She is an excellent cook, too. Those who have eaten meals that she has prepared can say the food was delicious. And the girls like to learn her recipes.

She has one daughter and one son. Her daughter, Mrs. Bill Jernigan, is a former Trevecca student. She is now in Kansas City where she teaches in the public schools and her husband attends Nazarene Theological Seminary. Her son, Robert Cleophil, with his wife and daughter, live in Springfield, Missouri.

Mrs. Orndoff came here in 1952, and ever since she has been a wonderful "Mom."

The basketball season proved to be a very good and interesting one this season. The Alphas proved they couldn't be beaten by going through 12 games, including the tournament, without a defeat marked against them in the record books. The Deltas followed the Alphas to take second place, and the Betas fell into the cellar only a game behind the Deltas. The best competition games were between the Deltas and Betas. On two occasions they were sent into an overtime battle that proves yet to be the most exciting games of the 1959 season.

This year's tourney was a very successful one under the direction of T.A.A. president Wendell Poole. The games were of the best and the players gave it all they had to provide the fans an interesting evening of basketball. We were very pleased with the crowds that came out for the two evenings, and we know that everyone will agree that the time was well spent.

Alphas Romp Deltas

The powerful Alpha five ran over the small Delta crew with ease and came out with a twenty point margin for a victory.

Not once could the Deltas gather enough baskets to go into the lead. They were completely out-played from start to finish.

The scoring was divided evenly among both teams. The Alphas had four men in the double figures with Sisson leading the way with 29. Poole followed close with 21. The Deltas also had four in double figures with Kirby and Little getting 16 and 15 points, respectively.

Box Score

Work!

Learning to work is one of the most important factors in our lives. If we do not learn to work when we are young or have someone to direct our paths which will eventually lead to skilled or manual labor, we shall grow up to be lazy, inconsistent, non-dependable, and a poor provider when we have to get out on our own.

The idea of work should not be driven into a person, but placed before him as a must or necessity of life. If we amount to anything, we'll have to lift ourselves by work.

A person who will not work is classified as an individual of low grade. Our future independency, cultural life, and democracy lie only in our willingness to perform the tasks that confront us.

In order to realize our hopes and dreams we must strive in mind and spirit to achieve higher plains of living. This can be achieved only by the word of all ages, W O R K.

Deltas Flip Betas

In Overtime 35-30

The score stood 27-25 with the Betas in front and only a few minutes left to play. Every tick of the clock was spelling out defeat for the Delta five. However, they had the ball and their only thought was to get it through the net. Bob Johnson was found open in the corner and set a one hander in the air that hit nothing but net. The score now was tied at 27-all as the Betas muffed a chance to score. The regular game ended with the two teams deadlocked at 27-27.

The overtime period started with the Deltas taking the tip and adding one point by way of the free throw route. They remained in the lead with Johnson and Kirby putting on the breeze to protect their lead. Roddy and Reynolds came through with key baskets in the clutch to add victory for the Deltas.

This marked the second time this year that the two teams have played to a standstill at the regulation time. The first game saw the Betas come out victorious, 68-64.

Spruill and Kirby tied for the scoring honors of the game with 15 points apiece.

Excercise Daily

The physical activities of any college are very vital to the welfare of the student body. In order to keep healthy we need to have physical exercise regularly. We are inclined to forget this fact as we grow older. For those who have no particular interest in basketball, football, or softball a brisk walk everyday would do the trick. Foreigners have often commented on how lazy the American people are. They ride everywhere they go, even if it is a short block. It is no wonder that so many of us have heart trouble. If it is impossible for us to take part in the provided sports, let us remember to take some kind of exercise regularly.

Girls' Basketball

by KATHY HEMMERLY

The season of basketball is quickly coming to an end. The Delta girls have won the seasonal as an undefeated team. The Alpha girls are next with the Betas scoring in last place. The Beta girls had a bad break when their captain, Bess Pearson, got hurt just when the season got underway, and was not able to play in any of the remaining games.

Deltas Trip Betas In Close One 49-42

Every time the Deltas and Betas have met this season they have brought down an exciting game. This game was no exception, because it was a corker from start to finish.

The first half was very exciting with each team matching bucket after bucket. The Betas were able to score last in the first period and led at half-time, 26-24.

The last half started out to be just as close as the first, and continued that way until the Deltas were able to throw up a tighter defense while they continued to score. Their lead built up to a 13-point span at one stage of the half, but it was short lived as the Betas cut it to seven just before the game ended.

Kirby and Johnson paced the Deltas, with 21 and 16 points, respectively, while Houston and Spruill led the Betas with 14 and 10 points, respectively.

Box Score

Beta		Delta
Cook	9	Holderby	2
Hudson	2	Klinstiver	0
Houston	14	Bowles	10
Spruill	10	Johnson	16
Williams	7	Kirby	21

Alphas Rip Deltas In Tournament Finals 56-45; Remain Undefeated

The seasonal champions from Alphaland handed the Deltas a 1959 tournament final defeat before a good crowd of cheering T.N.C. students and friends.

The game was expected to be a hot contest climaxing the regular season of tight competition. Just as predicted it proved to be a very well played game that saw different skills of the game performed in top fashion.

The Alphas took the opening tip, but were unable to score. The Deltas brought the ball down court and were put into the lead on a free throw. However, the lead was short lived as the Alphas began to hit from the outside.

Deltas Roll Past Betas In Semi-Finals 46-22

The Deltas won a right to clash with the Alphas for the championship by smashing the Betas 46-22 on Friday evening, March 13.

Playing with much spirit the Deltas started with a bang building up a 13-6 point lead mid-way of the first half, and at its end the score stood 22-11 with the Deltas sitting on top.

The second half of action didn't change the pace of scoring the Deltas had during the first twenty minutes of play. They were able to send 24 big points swishing through the nets to compile their 46 point total. The Betas were having trouble getting around the defense of the Deltas and could only hit for 11 points to match their first half total, making a total of 22 for the night.

The Deltas never looked better in gaining the semi-final victory. They had three men in double figures—Kirby with 14, Whittington 13, and Roddy with 10. Hampton had 12 to lead the Betas.

Box Score

Delta		Beta
Roddy	10	Hampton	12
Johnson	3	Houston	1
Whittington	13	Stocks	6
Jackson	6	Cook	3
Kirby	14	Hudson

1959 Basketball All-Stars

This year the T.A.A. elected eight to the all-star team. The Alphas and Deltas landed three on the dream team, while the Betas placed one.

Alphas: Eddie Sisson, Bob Cook, Wendell Poole.

Deltas: Charles Kirby, Bob Johnson, Bill Roddy.

Betas: Jim Stocks.

The girls have elected their basketball All-Stars. Those elected are: Jo Lynn Armstrong, Kathy Hemmerly, Louise Irwin, Carol Light, Doris Sweeney, Marquita Thomas, Jane Cassidy, Mary Beth Richardson, and Joyce Shaw.

The All-Stars played the Student Wives, Saturday, March 7, winning 18-15. The game was a very close and exciting one. It seems that the All-Stars should have scored more, since the wives or "grannies" as they were called during the game, were not in practice.

Action was very close during the first half, with the Alphas surging ahead to a comfortable half-time 28-17.

The Alphas didn't lose any steam during intermission, coming out to answer the buzzer and once again hitting consistently from the outside. The Deltas were giving it everything they had to pull the game out of the fire and have the tournament crown placed on their heads, but the Alphas were just more than they could put in their little bags and smother to defeat.

Ed Sisson was the big gun once again as he poured a total of 30 big points through the orange nets at Lucy Holt. Bob Cook followed for team runner-up honors with 14 for the night.

The Deltas were paced by Whittington who hit for 12, and Johnson and Jackson gathering 11 and 10 points respectively.

Box Score

Delta		Alpha
Roddy	4	Sisson	30
Johnson	11	Haddix	0
Whittington	12	McCauley	0
Kirby	8	Cook	14
Jackson	10	Peole	10
		Le Jeune	2

Delta Girls Win Tournament

The first game of the tournament got underway with the Alphas vs. the Betas. The Alpha girls took the game with quite a margin. Carol Light showed a lot of skill with her successful shooting ability.

Deltas Remain Undefeated

The last game of the tournament was the Alphas vs. the Deltas. The game was a close one for the first two quarters, but after the half the Deltas took the game away. The final score was 26-13.

This final game left the Delta girls as top team in the tournament and also winner of the seasonal games, since they had an undefeated season.

REMINISCING

Now and then, when life seems dreary,
 I like to reminisce.
 To think of old, childhood adventures
 And a long-forgotten kiss.

Ah! Now it comes to me—a trip
 Across a mighty lake,
 A hike, a swim, a picnic,
 Cleaning the yard with a rake.

Every insignificant act becomes
 Important in my mind—
 Words said, things done, a jewel,
 Or a watermelon rind.
 Ah, distinctly I remember.
 It was in the bleak December,
 Or the summer or the autumn.
 All are wrought upon my brain.

Fading, growing ever clearer,
 There's an old nickname.
 There is something that I'm proud of,
 There is something full of shame.

I blush for old mistakes and for
 Old championships still vie.
 It's amazing what is pictured
 In my mind's eye!
