Ewell Speaks For Founder's Day

Founder's Day was observed on November 13 at Trevecca Nazarene College with the emphasis on the school in the days since its beginning by Rev. J. O. McClurkan in 1901 and then through the years.

Included in the program was a number by the college choir and three speeches retrospective of the school. Rev. and Mrs. Roby told about "The School in the Days of McClurkan"; "The School Since McClurkan's Day" was the theme of Mrs. Johnson's speech; Dr. Mackey talked about "The Future of the College."

Highlighting the special event was the message of Dr. Cecil D. Ewell, pastor of First Nazarene Church. His theme was "The Yesterdays Speak to Today."

Dr. Ewell served during World War II in the Navy. He was chaplain from 1943 to 1946. Afterward he had the pastorate at the Bresee Avenue Church of the Nazarene in Pasadena, California. In 1951 he again answered his country's call, serving at San Diego and Long Beach Naval Stations. Early this April he was released to pastor First Nazarene Church in Nashville. Dr. Ewell has two sons, Cecil, 12 and John, 11.

Rev. Roberts Speaks

Friday, November 7th, the student body was intensely interested with the message of Rev. Garen Roberts.

Rev. Roberts is from a family of loyal Nazarenes who have stood by holiness through the years. As a child he would take part in the meetings held by his father. This background has provided the foundation, molded and prepared him for his life's responsibilities. Rev. Roberts is the oldest child in his family. His high school days were spent at Bethany, Oklahoma, and he did most of his college work at Bethany-Peniel and Oklahoma City University.

During World War II Bro. Roberts was chaplain, serving in the Canal Zone. Since his pastorate at Norman, Oklahoma, he has again served the armed force in Korea and Japan.

After finishing the district tour with Rev. Wachtel, Rev. Roberts will pastor at Minneapolis, Minnesota, First Nazarene Church.

Code Is Traditional

If you have noticed a group of boys gazing at the moon, digging in the fish pond, looking at the name plates on the trees, or just staring into space looking very thoughtful, you are probably wondering what they are doing. The answer is obvious. They are looking for the traditional cake that the Sophomores always hide from the Freshmen.

In chapel November 4, Freeman Davis, Sophomore president, presented the traditional cake code to the president of the Freshmen, Howard Spruill.

During the past few years the Freshmen have always worked in vain, failing to find the cake.

It seems that the enthusiasm of the 1952 Freshmen has far surpassed that of the Freshmen of previous years. They are really working hard, and why shouldn't they?

If they find the cake the Sophomores will give them an outing some time in March. However, if they fail, the Freshmen will entertain the Sophomores.

Good luck to the Freshmen!

Iranian Teacher Presents Program

Miss Zereda Dideban, a citizen of Iran (old Persia), recently gave the college audience one of the most informative programs presented here in recent years. On Friday evening, October 24, Miss Dideban appeared as guest speaker on the regular weekly series sponsored by the Student Advisory Council. At present a graduate student at Peabody College where she is pursuing studies toward the doctorate in education, the speaker has had several years experience as a teacher in the public schools of her country.

Miss Dideban reviewed briefly some broad phases of the very long history of Iran and then described various aspects of the present-day life there. She stressed the fact that while the country is largely Mohammedan in religious faith, the intolerant and warlike policies of Arabian Mohammedanism are not followed in Iran. Rather there is a large measure of religious toleration, as evidenced by the presence in recent decades of Christian mission schools. Miss Dideban attended one of these schools in her early years.

On the whole, the speaker emphasized that life in Iran is primitive and the masses of people live in poverty. This condition is improving as western methods and western tools are adopted. Most of the people are farmers and herdsmen, in the main tending lands and herds of a well-to-do but small class of nobility. Oil resources which might bring a large measure of wealth to the people have been for fifty years exploited by the British. Miss Dideban feels with most Persians that Premier Mossedegh's anti-British position is fully justified.

When asked whether Iran is in danger from Soviet Russia, she gave an answer that was mainly in the negative. The Communists who come into the country do not let their identity as Communists be known, she said, and they, unlike most westerners (as Americans and British) who go there, understand perfectly how to deal with the Persians to win their confidence and friendship.

FINE ARTS BUILDING

Many of you I know have been sitting in class lately listening intently to your professor have heard all the noise coming from the fine arts building. The steel has at least arrived and they are also pouring the second floor. Rapid progress is being made at Back sooner than you thought, huh? Well, here we are again ready to tell you some more of the latest.

It seems that the "King" really likes his "Queen" this year. How about it, Jim??

Have you noticed the cute new twosome seen around and about this year—Sarah Jones and Gerald Jackson? Good going kids!

Birthdays are really nice, aren't they, Lowell? Especially when "the girl of your dreams" plans a surprise birthday dinner for you.

Early the other morning as I walked into the cafeteria what do you think I saw! In a heart were these initials, "B. B. plus H. F." Wonder what this means!??

Science Club field trips are lots of fun, aren't they?—Frances Foster and Charles Duckett???

Miss Cooner seems unusually happy these days. Wonder if Jim Robinson could be the reason for the extra smiles???

Joyce Garrison and Bill Gadd really look happy. Wonder why??

I overheard a conversation the other day—Yvonne Bennett, and Betty Barnett were talking about what they would be doing four years from now. And what do you know—they all said they "hoped" they would be in Kansas City. Of course, they could not have been thinking about certain young men who would be in the Seminary!!!

All send good wishes to "Heab". Surely hope he gets to come out of that shell before long.

It almost seems like last year to see Jean Rodgers and Jimmie Smith strolling across the campus. Looks like we might see them together for a long time yet—right, kids???

Mrs. Gresham seemed quite alarmed the other day about the strange noises she heard in class. I think she finally decided it must have been the goblins, since Halloween was so near.

Wouldn't it be nice if all couples could get along as well as Betty Meggs and Donn Morrow do???

Good-bye for now, and DON'T FORGET—THE "TOWER SPY" IS WATCHING "YOU".

this time toward the completion of the building. My, doesn't it thrill our hearts to think that our dreams are becoming a reality.

ARE YOU LOYAL TO T. N. C.

Loyalty has wrapped up within it faithfulness, love, sacrifice and service. From the beginning of the history of Trevecca College founded by Rev. J. O. McClurkan in 1901 as a Bible school she has been building a reputation of her own and shall continue to build. This reputation has spread over the country as a testimony of the loyalty devoted to Trevecca College by the lives of the great men who have served her and the one who is serving her at the present time.

"Holiness unto the Lord" has been the theme of Trevecca College down across the years. Her sole aim has been to educate and build the lives of her young men and women in order that they might be able to go out and accomplish their utmost for the Lord. The years of training in Christian principles and ideals leave an indelible stamp upon the minds of Trevecca students.

Because of the enormous sacrifice made by the presidents and faculties of the past and the present we as students owe to them a debt of undying gratitude for the heritage which they have provided for us.

A former graduate was recently present with us and when called upon to give her testimony

it was somewhat in this manner. "I thank God for His personal salvation and for His saving, sanctifying and keeping power. Not until I left Trevecca did I realize what concepts, principles and ideals I had been formulating in my thinking and making them a vital part of my life. My daily prayer is that I may ever remain near to the heart of God so that I might at all times be the example He would have me to be. I work even harder now that I realize that I am a representative of Trevecca. When people see me they are seeing a product of Trevecca Nazarene College and I do not wish to bring reproach upon the great reputation that she has built. This thought presents a great challenge to my life."

Loyalty to Trevecca presents to each of us a challenge to diligently, fervently work while here for the spirit of Trevecca her reputation and her principles shall live on through us. Let us remember that our lives are not our own but that we live to love, to sacrifice and to serve God first, Trevecca second, and last all those with whom we come in contact. Give your best . . . Loyalty!

FOUR STUDENTS ARE ELECTED TO WHO'S WHO

Halloween Party

Provides Thrills

One of the traditions of Trevecca College is that the Junior class sponsor an all-college Halloween party. Much planning, time and effort was put forth to make this the best Halloween party Trevecca has ever known.

The big question as the students eagerly climbed aboard the trucks in front of the McClurkin Memorial building at six p. m. Friday, October 31, was, "Where are you taking us?" The reply, "Just wait and see." Mill Creek was the destination.

Upon arrival the party followed guides on a tour where there were spooks, haints and goblins to add to the excitement. At the end of the tour, the party came to a halt at the designated spot. Here they ducked for big red apples and had their fortunes told by prominent fortune tellers.

The party was divided into five groups with a leader who kept them busy with some interesting games. Each group was to select someone and dress him in newspaper costumes. Near the end of the activities everyone congregated for the grand assembly. Three judges were chosen to select which group had the best costume. This was to be determined by applause. Group two won first prize. The costume affair was a bridal gown with Sammie Bell as the bride, Allen Hollis as the father who gave the bride away, and Virginia Hill as the train bearer. Group One took second prize.

There were approximately two hundred in line for refreshments. Soft drinks, apples and krispy kreme donuts were on the menu for the evening. After the refreshments came the grand finale which consisted of a fast running witch race, a nursery rhyme acted out by each group and a skit, "Little Black Sambo" under the direction of Ben Speer.

The party procession was led back to the trucks by Bill Hill. The remarks heard as the weary party disappeared were "Oh, that was fun." "That moon sure is beautiful." "Perfect". "I had a grand time." "Wish we could do this all over again." Congratulations to Grant Browning, president of the Junior class, and to all the juniors for this successful party.

Based On Varied

Accomplishments

Every year each college and university is asked to submit nominations to be listed in Who's Who Among Students In American Universities and Colleges. Four-year-degree-granting institutions are the only ones allowed this privilege.

The selection of the nominees, which is twice the number of persons to be chosen, is done by the faculty Committee on Administration. The number of persons allowed to each institution is assigned by the editors of Who's Who.

The entire student body is allowed to vote on these nominees designed by the faculty committee. The four receiving the highest vote are elected, and when accepted by Who's Who they are notified of their choice.

The nominating committee considered the student's scholarship, his leadership, cooperation in educational and extracurricular activities, his general citizenship, and his promise of future usefulness.

According to this plan the administrative committee submitted a list of eight eligible students, four of whom were to be elected to this honor.

Those elected were:

Lowell Foster, president of the student council. Lowell is from Lanett, Alabama, and has been an outstanding student since coming to Trevecca. He has been quite active in extra-curricular activities.

Attention Girls !

High School Beats Sophomores

The high school volley ball team beat the sophomore girls two games out of two. The scores were 21-10 and 21-9.

There was a spirit of determination on the part of both teams. The high school girls played a good game with the sophomores pushing them all the way.

The teams were:

High School	Sophomores
Clarice Spruill	Nadine Evans
Esther Rodgers	Anna Stucki
Jean Rodgers	Joyce Garrison
Peggy Fannin	Frances Winder
Mattie Vaughn	Irene Davis
Linda Hampton	Billie Toney
Lona Miller	Kathlene Pope
Nina Griggs	Gracie Guseman
Patsy Decker	Sarah Jones

In a recent game between high school and freshmen the high school beat the freshmen two-games out of two. The last game of the match was very close the score being 22 to 20. With the score standing at 20-4 the freshmen got the ball and kept it until the score was tied at 20, then the high school girls came alive and held the ball for a score of 22.

The upperclassmen and sophomores were scheduled for a game on Nov. 7 but the upperclassmen did not get a team. There will be another game scheduled and everyone be looking for the announcement so you can come out and support your team.

From now on the days for girls' games will be on Wednesday and Friday of each week. At the present the high school is leading by one game. Everyone still has a chance; so come out and join us.

Sports Spotlight

Around the Campus

Things are all tied up in the Trevecca football league. The same two teams that were all tied up last year are again tied. The Freshmen and the Eagles each have a Three and one record. Could history be repeating itself?

There is some great football talent bouncing around the campus. Boys like Harry "Big Red" McCue are welcome at any college that has football in any form. Other outstanding boys have been "Fleet footed" Bill Lancaster of the High School, Harry Evans of the Sophomores and, of course, Grant Browning of the upper Classmen. There are others that we will call to your attention as they stand out in the games. Speaking of the games, some of you are missing a golden opportunity to see some good football.
